DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 3, 4, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Skaalen et al. (US#4599030) in view of Mayle (US#4740131).
3. Regarding claims 3, 4, and 13, Skaalen discloses a vehicle 10 for raising and transporting a structure, the vehicle comprising: a main frame 31,32,34-37 supported on ground engaging elements 16-19 which locate astride the structure when the vehicle is positioned over the structure; an attachment frame 14 for connection to the structure, the attachment frame located within the main frame; and a powered lifting mechanism 12 for raising the attachment frame relative to the main frame.
4. Skaalen discloses the attachment frame has a plurality of connectors 42 thereon which are fixed in the vertical direction with respect to the attachment frame as opposed to the attachment frame having winches thereon with each winch having a winch line with a hook at the free end thereof. However, utilizing a winch having a winch line with a hook at the free end thereof is a well known attaching/lifting device in the article handling art as evidenced by Mayle. Mayle discloses a vehicle for raising and transporting a structure comprising: a main frame 13-17; an attachment frame 12 located within the main frame wherein the attachment frame is movable relative thereto; the attachment frame includes a winch 47 thereon having a winch line 49,50 with a hook at the free end thereof 52,56. The winch apparatus enabling vertical translation of the structure with respect to the attachment frame. Therefore, as taught by Mayle, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Skaalen by replacing the connectors with winches having winch lines and hooks at the free end thereof thereby enhancing the vertical translation (raising and lowering) capabilities of the vehicle.

5. Although Skaalen fails to disclose the vehicle being used in conjunction with a crypt lid, the crypt lid is not being positively claimed and therefore represents the intended use of the vehicle. A recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). In this case, the vehicle is capable of being used in conjunction with a crypt lid.

6. Regarding claim 13, the ground engaging elements are wheels, and the vehicle is being viewed and labeled as a “trailer” as a trailer is defined as “a vehicle for transporting something” (Merriam-Webster’s Collegiate Dictionary, Tenth Addition).

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 5 and 6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. Claims 7-12, 14, and 15 are allowed.
